KATIE MUSTARD - BIO

Katie Mustard's career spans 30 countries and covers all facets of production, including roles as a line producer, producer, and production executive. Notably recognized in Variety's Top 10 Producers to Watch, Katie has led the production of over 40 feature films including acclaimed titles such as Otherhood, Custody, and The Greatest and documentary films like Framing John DeLorean and Console Wars.

In 2018, Katie joined Netflix as a Director of International Production responsible for supporting the global expansion of Netflix's original productions across EMEA. She oversaw 27 Netflix Original TV shows on a diverse slate including Into the Night (Belgium), The Woods (Poland), Young Wallander (Sweden), Rise of the Empires: Ottoman (Turkey/US), and The Club (Turkey). Her work on such a broad slate made her a key contributor to establishing best practices, workflows, and cross-functional collaborations that serve as the basis for Netflix's continued scaling across these regions. In 2021, Katie relocated to Istanbul to build a Netflix studio in Turkey. She shepherded numerous growth initiatives to reach high volume and quality goals, driving Netflix's long term success in the region.

In 2023, Katie returned to producing and production consulting with a focus on US content shooting in EMEA. Katie is uniquely experienced in both US and EU production practices, successfully navigating the opportunities and challenges a production faces in both emerging and established markets. She is committed to diversity, equity, and inclusion in the industry (leading ERGs within Netflix) and is a member of the DGA, the PGA, IFP, and Women Production Society. She served for 11 years as the lead production advisor for the Venice Biennale Cinema Fund to support global emerging talent.

Katie received her B.A in Cinema-Television from the University of Southern California and attended high school TV and Film camp at Northwestern and UCLA. She is based in Amsterdam with her husband and two children.
